LONWOOD NATURAL ON HGTV'D

The June 27, 2011 episode of "HGTV'd" featured a young couple who were quickly out-growing their house. They were looking to have their cluttered garage be transformed into a space where from which they could run their cooking business. Designer Jamie Durie utilized Lonseal's Lonwood Natural #465 Rainfall to help turn the garage into an utterly unique kitchen and office.

In the episode, Jamie takes note of Lonwood Natural's exquisite surface and his installer points out the strength and durability of the product.

You can watch the episode at www.hgtv.com and see the Lonseal installation segment at the 11:35 point.

Lonwood Natural pairs the timeless aesthetics of wood with the benefits of high-perfor-mance sheet vinyl in colors that range from earthy to quirky. Its soft grain patterning and smooth surface make Lonwood Natural ideal for those who want the warmth of wood with easier maintenance. One of Lonseal's most popular products, Lonwood Natural can be used in an array of commercial spaces—from restaurants to retail to healthcare facililties.

An asterisk (*) denotes Lonwood Natural colors that are available with Topseal—Lonseal's factory-applied urethane finish that saves time on maintenance, money on lifecyle costs and lessens impact on the environment. Other colors can be special ordered with Topseal.
